

Web Resources

There is a significant amount of web based resources related to the Bible. Some have a specific purpose such as the provision of an Online Bible while others offer a personal perspective. Organizations and specific religious groups also use the web to promote and explain their beliefs.

The following resources have been selected as they offer a fairly neutral perspective. The listing includes web based services along with downloadable apps for all operating systems and smartphones/tablets.

For easy browsing download this document and click on the links for direct access.

Content is free with some paid options/enhancements. The free versions may have some pop up adverts to help cover costs.

Bible Resources

<https://www.biblegateway.com/> Very comprehensive resources including commentaries, a wide range of translations and languages and excellent search options. Includes audio Bibles.

<https://www.blueletterbible.org/> As with Bible Gateway, this site offers very comprehensive resources including commentaries, a wide range of translations and languages and excellent search options.

<https://www.bible.com/> A huge range of resources including online content, apps for smart phones/tables, audio Bible in literally hundreds of languages, reading plans and much more.

Audio Bibles

<https://wordproject.org/bibles/audio/index.htm>

<http://www.biblestudytools.com/audio-bible/kjv/>

Audio versions of the Bible that can be listened to both online and via download.

Video

<https://youtu.be/2mqUPt2KI08> Gospel of John. This three-hour video drama attempts to accurately follow the words of the Gospel of John with no other narrative. Christopher Plummer provides voice-over narration of the Bible text. Available in several languages.

<https://youtu.be/tRXNp6K5-JI> A rendering of the Acts of the Apostles in the same style as the Gospel of John referenced above.